

HARDING WILL CALL NATIONS TO CONFERENCE ON DISARMAMENT

Congressman Butler is Authority --- Sims' Testimony Stresses Importance of Aircraft and America's Lack of This Equipment.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 4.—Positive declaration that the new administration will call an international conference verses with Secretary Daniels after the war gained him wide notoriety, recognized the need and desirability of an international understanding to stop competitive armaments. But, like to discuss disarmament was made today by Chairman Butler of the house naval affairs committee.

During testimony by Admiral Sims on disarmament, Chairman Butler asked Sims whether he believed the nations would join in such a conference and added, "I do know that an invitation to such a conference is going to be sent out."

Chairman Butler conferred with President-elect Harding in Marlon some weeks ago and at that time inferred that the president-elect was considering the disarmament question seriously.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, commander of American naval forces abroad during General Pershing he considered that in view of the unsettled condition of the world it would be both unwise and unsafe to completely disarm.

"A man may take his hand off his gun," said Admiral Sims, "but he should not necessarily take it out of the house."

Admiral Sims thought that the world powers are ready and anxious to reach an armament understanding that will stop the terrific expenditure caused by competitive building.

"I came into contact with the leading heroes of the British, French, Italian and Japanese navies," said the admiral, "and we frequently discuss these things."

"One of the commonest expres-the war, revealed himself at odds with Secretary of the Navy Daniels and other high naval officers. When he appeared before the House committee on the House expressed the belief that in the future aircraft will play a more important part in naval warfare than great battleships.

MRS. HARDING'S EVENING GOWNS

New York, Feb. 4.—The evening gowns of Mrs. W. G. Harding, next first lady of the land, will be very competitive it was learned today.

She has ordered five such gowns so far and each is said to be elaborately trimmed, has a long train, short sleeves and none is to be cut low.

Mrs. Harding has done most of her shopping for her White House wardrobe.

SLEEPING SICKNESS VICTIM.

Francis Lesniowski, 62, married, the collection would total about $100. The collection was contained in a basket on one side of the church, and in a box on the other side of the chancel. The clerk emptied the basket and took the box with him. Father Lesniowski reported law theft to the police.

Mrs. Robertson Had Double Vision Before Death.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lowell, Mass., Feb. 4.—Following four weeks of almost continual sleep, Mrs. Hanna Robertson, Williamsport, Pa., is dead today at St. John's hospital, this city. A peculiarity of her sickness was the fact that when awake she had double vision and also said she saw in her room persons who were known to be dead persons who were away.

WOMAN LAWYER IN MURDER TRIAL

Mrs. Augusta E. Maley, 14, Counsel for William Gleason, whose fight for life will soon begin in New Jersey Court. "A Woman Understands," Says Defendant's Mother.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Feb. 4.—For the first time in the state of New Jersey a woman will help defend a man on trial for his life.

Mrs. Augusta E. Maley, of Hackensack, will be one of the counsel for defense when William Gleason comes to trial for murder within the next three weeks.

The first woman of Hackensack to practice law, she is also the first woman in her state to try a criminal case.

A jury of men will hear the testimony.

But a woman will question their fitness to pass upon that testimony before she permits them to attain a place in the jury box.

"The next best thing to a jury of women, or one with some women members, is to have a panel examined and challenged by a woman," said Mrs. Maley.

Woman challenges men in the supreme court of her state. Appropriate in this case, combination of the old and the new.

Across the street from this imposing home of avenging justice the winter's snow falls timorously on a graveyard three hundred years old.

Here the prejudices that have turned to dust, buried bigotry.

Pale monuments that look like the ghosts of graveyards huddle together, as if to baricade their lifeless bones against the sharp step of progress.

The ancient hotel near by where George Washington stopped to rest continues its course of uninterrupted charm.

Down the main street of the busy little town here and there, crowded in between modern structures, can be seen a washed-out, bluish-white house, like a weary-eyed old man with sagging cheeks. Or, perhaps, it is a decent old residence that has had a new shop-front of neat red brick put on to modernize it, for all the world like a point-lace grand-mother that was forced to slip on a striped blazer to keep from freezing to death.

This is Hackensack, the picturesque old and the bustling new. Perhaps a town can best be seen by someone to whom it is unfamiliar. And perhaps a woman can best be described by someone who knows her very well.

"My wife is not a new woman," says United States Commissioner Patrick Henry Maley.

"She is an old-fashioned woman who is up to date."

Mrs. Maley smiled at the indictment, and told me how it came about that she will help defend William Gleason when he is put on trial for his life.

When Commissioner Maley a few years ago wanted to take in a law

Blood Is Fuel to The Body

PEPTO-MANGAN HELPS BLOOD

Keep the Quality of Your Blood at its Best—It Means Vigorous Health and Ability to Accomplish

Blood acts like a fuel. Pumped through the body by the heart, it sustains the muscles and tissues, it renews them. It feeds the brain—the tissues of the eye and face. That is why people look so pale and lifeless when blood is impoverished. The body tissues are being supplied with weak fuel. The blood has not enough red corpuscles. You would not eat poor food with no nourishment in it; no more should you let the fuel that supplies sustenance to your entire body be inferior. Have good blood. Improve the quality and keep it at its best.

If you look pale and feel weak, if you have lost your enthusiasm and energy, if your blood is clogged with poisons, your system is being fed with a poor grade of blood. That is no way to go around. If you are not at your best, get at the source of the trouble right away. Put an end to half-living.

Take that ideal tonic, Pepto-Mangan, to tone up your blood and purify it. Get the full enjoyment out of living. Breathe fresh air, take exercise.

Be sure to ask for "Gude's Pepto-Mangan." It comes in convenient tablet form and in liquid. One has the same medicinal value as the other. There is only one genuine Pepto-Mangan, and the name "Gude's" is on the package.—Advertisement.

partner he was puzzled as to a choice. Mrs. Maley, a former school teacher, asked if she couldn't study law and help.

"I asked Mr. Maley why his life partner couldn't be his law partner too," she said.

"And she began to study law, got through and passed the bar examination as soon as it could be done," interrupted her proud husband.

"Although I do not consider criminal practice the proper field for a woman lawyer, I have taken a great interest in this case," said Mrs. Maley.

"My husband will be counsel for the Gleason boy, but I have prepared the case for him and will help in the trial. Just how I can't say yet. Developments will decide that for me."

"I want no credit that is not due to me, but I am very much interested in the case of this boy. He was honorably discharged from army service, and was faithful and hard working."

"He has been unfortunate and got into bad associations. He came to

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Feb. 2.—On Tuesday evening, February 15, there will be an entertainment consisting of recitations and vocal and instrumental music given in the Methodist Church. After the entertainment light refreshments will be served in the lecture room.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church was entertained on Wednesday of last week by Miss Helen Clark. A good number were present.

The society is next invited to the home of Mrs. Erastus Irick on February 16th.

Miss Julia Mashrover, who has been away during the month of January returned home on Friday of last week.

Miss Josephine Hasbrouck has also returned home.

The community was shocked to hear of the accident which befell Mrs. Ross Bloom on Tuesday of last week and of her death on Monday morning. Mrs. Bloom has not enjoyed good health for several years and on Thursday while alone in her home she fell, breaking her hip. She has been a life long resident of this place and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. The deepest sympathy is felt for the bereaved family.

FASHIONS IN FURS

Short Sport Coat Favorite Among American Women.

In This Type of Wrap Mink Can Be Comfortable; It Is Always Good Looking.

For stands out more prominently in women's apparel this season than ever before. Not only are fur coats now costing a small fortune, but there are coat linings of fur, coat trimmings of fur, hats of fur, dresses trimmed with fur. Everywhere fur is seen in abundance, and wherever it is used it adds that last touch of lavishness now so much sought.

The American woman delights in the short sport coat of fur. In it she can be comfortable and it is always good looking. There is something about the short fur coat that is always in the well-dressed class. Then comes the long fur coat, which allows so many sorts of frocks to be worn with it. The sport skirt of wool or plaid or stripes is good; the soft satin folds of a one-piece frock look graceful when falling from a look of thick fur; serge is good with top of thick fur; very smart. It is interesting to see the different combinations that can be made with a short fur coat and to see that most of them are astonishingly successful. Seal is the fur that is most popular, and, indeed, most successfully used for these shorter coats. It comes so nicely with different materials and colors. The tall girls look fascinating when they wear lightish dresses along with short seal coats, and the short girls are at their best when the skirt that shows is of a darker tone. Then seal has another advantage; it is dressy when it must be, but at the same time it can be worn on other occasions. Once a fur coat is adopted as a part of a winter wardrobe, it is apt to be clung to closely. Nothing else, after the coarseness of fur, seems at all adequate for keeping out the wintry blasts.

How High Do Birds Fly?
This appears to be still an unsettled question in ornithology, and recently a scientific institution requested air-planes engaged in meteorological exploration to observe the heights at which birds are found. At present it is believed that birds generally do not rise more than about 1,200 feet above the ground, although occasionally they attain an elevation of between 6,000 and 7,000 feet.

FASHIONS IN BRIEF

Beautiful head chains are shown in a garish mixture of colors. Some smart Paris frocks have narrow bands at the hem. Some evening gowns feature the long, full skirt and square décolletage. Although slippers of various colored kid are considered smart, the demand is still for black hose. Afternoon frocks are almost invariably of some soft material such as chambray or ducray, following the straight, long-waisted silhouette. Ringtail opossum and hollow squirrel are being used as border trimmings on suits and on coats for daytime wear. Beads, silk, wool, spangles, rain-stones and gold and silver thread are used alone or in combination, whether the design be large or small. Interesting are the hangers whose tops show such formidable creatures as the frog and the spider. They are fashioned from a novel substance and stained in natural colors. To Clean White Spots. Light colored spots or white hairs may be removed by washing in soda-lime (prepared by dissolving in a quart of hot water) and rinsing well in clean gasoline. Or, they may be placed in a tin and scrubbed with a soft brush and soda made from soap suds. Do not scrub. Always use extra water between heavy scrubs, and press, if necessary, when nearly dry.

When Paris Was Bombed.
When the Germans closed in around Paris in 1870 the French capital was isolated from the world save by balloon communication, and very rare escapes through the walls and the lines. In the Washington Star of November 2, 1894, is printed an extract from a letter received by a Washingtonian that day from Paris by the balloon route, as follows: "We have been 27 days isolated by the German army and completely isolated from the rest of the world, so that we know little or nothing of what occurs beyond our walls. Our citizens are determined to make an energetic defense and have plenty of provisions and ammunition for several months. An army of 400,000 men is being organized here, which will be ready to co-operate with our relief forces now gathering in the provinces. M— being a National Guard, is on duty at the fortifications 24 hours out of 48."

For Linn the Hunt.
Old Raymond has been pursued on horse and with hounds in nearly every state east of the Mississippi, where he is found in various numbers to register his hunting as a subject of sport. writes Mr. R. W. Schmitt in the American Forester Magazine of Washington. In New England and in the southern section generally it is considered impertinent to shoot the pursued fox at the hunt, or during any part of the chase, while in Kentucky and Tennessee, and other southern districts such a practice is considered highly impertinent, and would subject the perpetrator to the severest criticism from every member of the guild. Strange as it may appear, it is nevertheless true that experienced old foxes, and those that have become familiar with the ways of men, horses and hounds, seem to enjoy the fun quite as much as the hunters do.

Stick to Wooden Clothes-Pin.
About 20,000,000 feet of lumber each year is used in the manufacture of clothes-pins. There has been no improvement in the art of manufacturing clothes-pins for 40 years. The method was invented in New Hampshire, and nearly, if not all, the machines now in use were manufactured there. New Englanders have been the originators of most of the methods used in woodworking, and so far as clothes-pins are concerned have not been surpassed. For the last ten years there have been at least five inventions annually for improvements in clothes-pins submitted to the patent office, but none found any degree of favor with the board of patents, who are still loyal to the old fashioned wooden clothes-pin.

Chinese Lily Pine Plant.
One of the most successful lily plants for house culture is the Chinese lily plant, a variety of the narcissus which is imported from China. Place in a fish pond three inches deep put in one and a half inches of sand, and cover with one inch of gravel, white pebbles or broken marble. On this set the bulb to prevent them from floating. Place them in a sunny window and they will bloom perfectly. The flowers are white, with a yellow throat cup, the stems having a strong, with down three to seven bladders. The Chinese cut away the third skin on the top of the bulb, which seems to facilitate the growth, but in cutting, one must be careful to cut only one-eighth of an inch in depth, or the leaf growth will be injured.

The Snail and the Screw.
It is no doubt true that nearly all human inventions have been suggested by natural objects. Foremost of the French School of Mines points out an interesting example in the case of the screw, the fundamental idea of which, he believes, was suggested to primitive man by the spiral shape of the edible snail. It was not the shape of the shell that suggested the screw, but the spiral motion which it is necessary to give the body of the snail in order to withdraw it from the shell. Thus at once showed that an object of a screw shape embedded in a solid powerfully resisted attempts to withdraw it by a straight pull. The hint was enough, and the screw became one of the earliest of man's inventions.

Perfectly True.
"I thought you told me you had a pretty accurate idea of who was going to be elected." "No I had. I have it was not going to be any of the people who had not been nominated."

Good Film Art.
New York has a film which has started on a successful 5-in screen career. It is a cartoon called "Cora." It is beautiful with its feathers attracted the attention of the director of a large film company, and now he has a job sequence in all of very where birds are needed. He gets a good salary.

Mrs. Warren G. Harding has chosen her gown for the inauguration. The gown is to be of softest chambray, trimmed with chiffon and embroidered in jewels. The chosen color is "sagebrush" blue—a shade missing the pale tint of "Alder" blue and the more vivid "French" blue. Mrs. Harding will wear with the inauguration gown a hat of the same shade and, if the weather is warm, a wrap of blue chiffon. Mrs. Harding posed for the above photograph while in New York, where she did her inaugural shopping.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

By LEWIS CARROLL

Condensation by Newton Newkirk

Lewis Carroll (Charles Lutwidge Dodgson) was born in the village of Daresbury, Cheshire, England, Jan. 27, 1832. He was a mathematician as well as an author, and while the literary life of Lewis Carroll was a wide circle of readers, the private life of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson was a narrow one. He was a mathematician, and his mathematical work was successful. He took a first class in the final mathematical school in 1854, and the following year was appointed mathematics master at Christ Church, a post he continued to fill until 1861. He published books of a purely mathematical nature first, but in 1858 he published, under the pseudonym of "Lewis Carroll," "Alice's Adventures Under Ground," a work that was the outcome of his keen sympathy with the imagination of children and their sense of fun. This whimsical story was an immediate success, and the name "Lewis Carroll" has ever since been a household word.

Mr. Dodgson was extremely fond of children, and it was an open secret that the original of Alice was a daughter of Dean Liddell. A dramatic version of the Alice books was produced at Christmas, 1899, and has since enjoyed enormous popularity.

Throughout this dual existence, Mr. Dodgson persistently refused to be publicly identified with "Lewis Carroll," although his authorship of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass" was well known.

He died at Goddard on the 14th of January, 1898; his memory is kept green by a cot in the children's hospital, Great Ormond street, London, which was erected and endowed perpetually by public subscription.

ALICE sat nodding sleepily on a mossy bank beside her big sister, who was reading.

Presently a pink-eyed white rabbit ran by looking at its watch and crying, "Oh dear—I shall be late!" Alice bounded after the rabbit across a field and into a hole under a hedge. After running through the hole a distance, she suddenly stepped off into space and began to fall. She fell slowly, and it was a very pleasant sensation. Alice was wondering whether she would stop at the earth's center when, bump!—she landed on a heap of leaves unhurt.

The rabbit was scampering down the passage. Springing to her feet she pursued, but it disappeared around the next corner and Alice found herself in a long hall of many doors all locked. On a table was a golden key which fitted the smallest door, only 15 inches high. Unlocking this she beheld a beautiful flower garden, but could not squeeze through the door.

On the table she found a bottle labeled "Drink Me." Alice tasted—it was delicious and she drank it all. She shrank to only ten inches in height. "Now I can go into the garden," cried Alice, running to the door, but alas, she had unlocked it and left the key on the table far beyond her reach.

Beneath the table in a glass dish she found a cookie on which were the words, "Eat Me." She ate this and soon grew nine feet tall. Presently the rabbit entered and seeing Alice fled in dismay, dropping his gloves and fan. Alice picked them up and began to fan herself. Soon she was only two feet high and dropped the fan in a fright. Thereupon she stopped growing smaller and knew it was a magic fan.

Hearing footsteps she turned to see the rabbit standing near. It was nearly as tall as she and seemed very sorry. "You go to my house and bring me a pair of gloves and a fan," commanded the rabbit sternly. Alice, lady frightened, started to obey. She found herself running through a deep wood. Soon she came to a little white house. The doorman said, "Welcome." Entering she hurried upstairs to the rabbit's bedroom and found, not gloves and a fan, but a bottle on the bureau. It was not locked, but Alice drank the contents. She grew so small that the room was hardly big enough to contain her, although she was lying on the floor with her head drawn up to her chin.

While in this predicament someone threw a handful of pebbles through the window into the room. These landed into bits of candy. Alice ate several of them and soon found that she could change from the house, then she ate the candy and she was back to her old size.

"What can I do for you?" asked a voice. Alice looked up and saw the doorman at a small doorway. "Oh, please," replied Alice, "bring me a large fan." "That's easy," said the doorman. "The size of this doorman will make you larger and the other side smaller." Before Alice could ask more the doorman disappeared.

Alice broke off a piece from each side of the doorman. After eating a bit of one she grew so short that she stuck her head. Shortly after this she ate the other piece and her head was the same size as the body. "Oh, dear," said Alice, "I never in my life saw such a thing!" she cried, sitting down on the first glass and shrinking down to only nine inches.

In despair she started to walk through the wood and soon came to a little house about four feet high. Without knocking Alice walked into the kitchen. The Duchess sat roasting a little pig in her lap. The Cook was sprinkling quantities of pepper into a bottle of soup and a Cheshire Cat on the hearth grinned from ear to ear at her. All three seemed violently from time to time.

"Those go away—I don't like your grin," said Alice to the Cat. "All right," replied the Cat, and vanished, beginning with the tail and ending with the grin—but the grin remained after the rest had disappeared. To escape from this horrid grin Alice ran out of the house and into the wood closely pursued by the grin. Seeing a little door open leading into a big tree Alice slipped through and slammed the door behind her, shutting out the grin.

Turning about she at last found herself in the beautiful garden. Standing about a rose-tree near the entrance were three gardeners painting the white roses red. "Why are you doing that?" asked Alice. "Because," replied one, "the Queen does not fancy white roses." "Hush!" said another; "here comes the Queen now!" Alice turned eagerly to behold the royal procession. There were soldiers with clubs, courtiers bedecked with diamonds and the royal children were ornamented with hearts, while in and out among them hopped the White Rabbit. Last of all came the King and Queen of Hearts.

When the Queen came to Alice she stopped and asked, "My child, do you play croquet?" "Y-y-y-yes," stammered Alice much confused. "Then here is your mallet," replied the Queen handing Alice a live flamingo. Then the game began and such a crazy game of croquet Alice had never seen.

The croquet balls were live hedgehogs and the soldiers bent over to make the arches. Besides the ground was full of hummocks and ridges. All played at once. When Alice would get ready to hit her ball with the flamingo's head, either the hedgehog would walk off, or the soldier making the arch would stand up to rest his back.

"How do you like the game?" asked a voice. Looking up Alice beheld the grin of the Cheshire Cat. Before she could answer the Cat's head appeared, but no more of it. "I don't like it at all," replied Alice dropping her mallet which at once flew off. The Cat turned to look at the King, who did not like being grinned at, and complained to the Queen, who ordered the Cat beheaded on the spot.

"That is all very well," said the King, "but I should like to know how it is possible to behead a cat which has no body?" While they were arguing the Cheshire Cat vanished, head, grin and all.

Alice went to look for her flamingo, but could not find it. When she returned all the players had gone to the Palace. Alice followed and entering found a trial in progress. The King and Queen sat on their thrones hearing the evidence. The Knave of Hearts was being tried for stealing some tarts the Queen had made. Several witnesses testified, but they talked of everything else except the stolen tarts.

"What a silly trial!" thought Alice, nibbling absent-mindedly at a piece of mushroom she had left. Almost before she knew it she grew so tall her head bumped against the ceiling.

"Call the next witness!" commanded the King. "ALICE!" cried the White Rabbit. "But I don't know anything about the stolen tarts," protested Alice. "That's very important," remarked the King. "It's against the rules for a witness over a mile high to testify," said the Queen. "Leave this court at once!" ordered the King addressing Alice. "In that case," said the King, "let the jury consider the verdict." "Sentence first and verdict afterward," objected the Queen. "How absurd to have a sentence before a verdict!" said Alice scornfully.

"Off with that girl's head!" shouted the Queen pointing at Alice. "Will you please, stop down so I can carry out the Queen's orders!" asked the Royal Executioner politely. "No, I won't!" cried Alice; "you are all laughing but a naughty pack of cards anyhow and I am not afraid of you!" Thereupon the whole pack rose up into the air and flew straight into Alice's face.

"Come, Alice dear, wake up," said her big sister, shaking her gently; "you've been sleeping nearly an hour and it's time to go home."

Then little Alice knew that her wonderful journey had been only a wonderful dream.

HIS 'HELL-BOOK' TELLS OF THEFT

Trusted Manager is Found to Be at Least $70,000 Short in Accounts.

STEALS FOR HIS WIFE

Money Goes to Buy Flowers, Candy and Other Luxuries for Woman Whom He Absolves of Blame for Embezzlement.

Chicago.—For two years his "hell-book" was Charles E. Brierley's conscience. For two years he held out against the slowly mounting total of the speculations which he carefully noted in the little black ledger.

But at last the "hell-book" won out. Voluntarily Charles E. Brierley, employee and personal friend of Sir Thomas Lipton, church member, good husband, walked into the state attorney's office and from there to a cell in the detective bureau.

In the Chicago office of the Lipton Tea company, expert accountants worked feverishly on the ledgers. It was Brierley's duty as district sales manager to audit and by nightfall had discovered defalcations of more than $70,000.

At the offices of the Employers' Assurance Liability company here, it was stated that Brierley's shortage may total from $75,000 to $100,000.

Wife Sits at Home.
In an apartment at 518 Wrightwood avenue, a woman sat trying to fit this new identity of a criminal to the familiar, decent, loving personality of the man who had made her life happy for 12 years. She is Mrs. Brierley.

Two weeks before Brierley slipped quietly into his private office of the Lipton Tea company and dismissed his stenographer. Then he got out a little black book from an inner pocket—his "hell-book," he calls it.

With the book open at the last entry, he sat down to write a letter in longhand.

"They amount to—he consulted his 'hell-book'—'over $30,000,' he wrote on the first sheet. "You remember twelve years back, dear, when I was a bookkeeper at $18 a week. I wanted to do little things for you—there were flowers and candy and little things for you—our home.

Sat Down to Write a Letter.

Learned Accounting.
"And you remember when I went to night school and learned accounting. And the Lipton people made me their accountant. And still I kept on at the night school and learned expert accounting. And I told you that I was earning money on the side. That was true. At that time I could well afford the little pleasures I procured for you. Later, when I tried to give you more and better things, I couldn't afford it.

"That's why I am an embezzler. You are spotless—blameless. Never did you ask for a thing. It was all my great desire to give you the things you didn't ask for."

REWARDED FOR WELL DOING

Recovery of Stolen Automobile Nets Police Officer in Ohio Sum of 15 Cents.

Martin's Ferry, O.—Police Reddy, police officer, will get his reward for recovering an automobile which had been stolen by two navy deserters captured here. The reward will amount to 15 cents. When the Steubenville (O.) owner arrived here he took his car without even thanking the police department and neglected to pay the cost of the telephone call which notified him of the recovery of the car. The city clerk sent him a bill for 15 cents for the call and as the owner sent back $3 the city will make a public presentation of the 15 cents change to the policeman who recovered the machine.

Havanna Cured Poed to Remedy.
Japan.—Small bread contained in a container at Japan, near Yokohama, was carried to the desert, where it was found by a hurricane which destroyed the warehouse. The bread was found by the hurricane, which was able to survive when they found the "man" from the desert.

STOLE TO FEAST MAN SHE LOVED

Girl Cashier of Baltimore Insurance Firm Charged With Embezzling $9,673.

CONFESSES HER GUILT

Told Detectives She Would Do Anything for Man She Loved, and Later Expresses Willingness to Marry Him.

Baltimore.—That she had embezzled thousands of dollars for the purpose of lavishing it on the man she loved, was the admission of Miss Bessie L. Pick, twenty-seven years old, a cashier employed by an insurance firm, when she was questioned at police headquarters. She is now locked up charged with embezzling $9,673 from the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont. Following a close questioning of the young woman the detectives arrested Frank Schultz, who is being held on the charge of violating the Mann act. Miss Pick said Schultz had accompanied her in a taxicab to Charlestown, W. Va., and spent the night of July 4 with her at a hotel. John A. Hunt, a chauffeur, told the detectives that Schultz had paid him $50 for the trip and that his hotel bills for the night at the West Virginia town had been paid by the couple.

Woman Involved in Case. Involved in the case also is Mrs. Hilmar Stearns, fifty years old, at whose house the couple is alleged to have spent many nights, and where they had obtained a large quantity of whisky. Mrs. Stearns is locked up on the charge of having maintained a disorderly house. According to Miss Pick's admission, the juggling of the insurance firm's accounts has been going on for some time past, but the defalcations escaped detection until the early part of this month. Miss Pick had been with the firm seven years and besides acting as cashier, was confidential bookkeeper. Miss Pick told the detectives that she had often accompanied Schultz in taxicabs, and that often when they had ordered dinner at a hotel she would hand money under the table to him so that he would not be embarrassed when the time came to settle the bills. She told the detective that she loved Schultz and she would do anything in the world for him. She said she was willing to be married to him, and he has said he wishes to marry her.

PUT NAKED CHILD IN YARD

Father Arrested for Forcing Mother to Compel Babe to Sleep in Shed.

Camden, N. J.—In order to get his twenty-month-old babe out of the house, Frank Luchi, twenty-nine years old, placed it by day, naked, in a filthy yard. At night he forced it to sleep in an open shed.

Sick and emaciated from lack of proper food and care, the child was found exposed to the heat of the sun without any covering of clothes, and tormented by flies from an open garbage can nearby. By Mrs. W. F. Walsh, secretary of the Camden branch of the Society to Protect Children from Cruelty.

A housekeeper at the Luchi home, mother of the babe, who says she is the common law wife of Luchi, testified against him.

BOSS PUT KICK IN MILK

North Carolina Farmer's Cow Thought Dying Only Drank on Whisky Mash.

Purchase, N. C.—John King, a farmer living near this city, found one of his cows dying on the ground of their pasture in a stupor, apparently suffering from some strange malady. A veterinarian was called and after lengthy examination pronounced both animals as surely "heavily" drunk. A search for the cause led to the discovery of a big "mash" still in a secluded corner of the pasture. The cows had eaten a quantity of the mash used by the black whisky manufacturers.

JEW FLOCKING TO PALESTINE

Are Coming From All Corners of the Globe.

THEIR PROBLEMS OUTLINED

General Secretary of the Zionist Organization Issues Statement Telling of the Progress That Has Been Made—Program to Handle "Pioneers" Was Formed at Conference of Central European Bureaus—Enthusiasm of the Jews Is Growing.

Representatives of all the Jewish emigration bureaus in central Europe met recently at Maderich, Austria, on the border between Poland and Czechoslovakia and adopted a program to provide for the rush of Jews returning to Palestine. The conference was called by Mr. Landmann, general secretary of the Zionist organization of London. Mr. Landmann afterward issued a statement in which he said that Jews from the remote corners of the globe are arriving in Palestine, and in which he outlined the problems which must be met. The statement reads:

"The movement of Jews to Palestine is no new phenomenon. For centuries—in fact ever since the destruction of the temple in 70 A. D.—there have been individuals who felt the call, and on several occasions whole groups have taken the pilgrimage to Palestine. But it has been reserved for our own time to see the beginning of a national return, of the rebirth of a people after so many centuries of waiting and hoping.

"The Balfour declaration was interpreted by the simple folk in this part of the world as the establishment of a Jewish state and an open invitation to all to come. Many sold their belongings and set out on foot in the midst of war conditions. Very few reached their haven; military exigencies kept the gates of Palestine closed, even to the Jew.

"Good Class of Pioneers. "The actual migration was compelled to wait until the political future of the country was finally settled at San Remo last April. The reports read at the conference by the delegates who were in charge of the Palestine bureaus in Poland and Vienna show that after San Remo the number grew enormously. The aggravated political conditions in Poland also contributed to hasten the decision of those who had half resolved to go. Between the months of May and September about 50,000 persons registered their names as ready to undertake the journey.

"The class of these pioneers is very good. They are almost exclusively young men and women—about 10 per cent are women—between the ages of seventeen and twenty-five. They are called by the Hebrew name 'Chalutzim,' meaning 'pioneers.' They have been preparing for their future life's work in various ways. Many have left their schools and colleges and gone to fill the soil with their own hands in order to be prepared.

"Apart from these purely agricultural pioneers, there are others who are being trained as bricklayers, masons, tinsmiths, plumbers and in all other branches of the building trades. The crying need of Palestine is for houses and shelter for all the new arrivals.

"In addition to the knowledge of a handicraft, Hebrew speaking is an indispensable part of the curriculum. Between 50 and 80 per cent of all who leave for Palestine can speak Hebrew. I was myself in Palestine two months ago, and visited the settlements of some of the newly arrived 'Chalutzim,' and was greatly impressed with them—the men as well as the women.

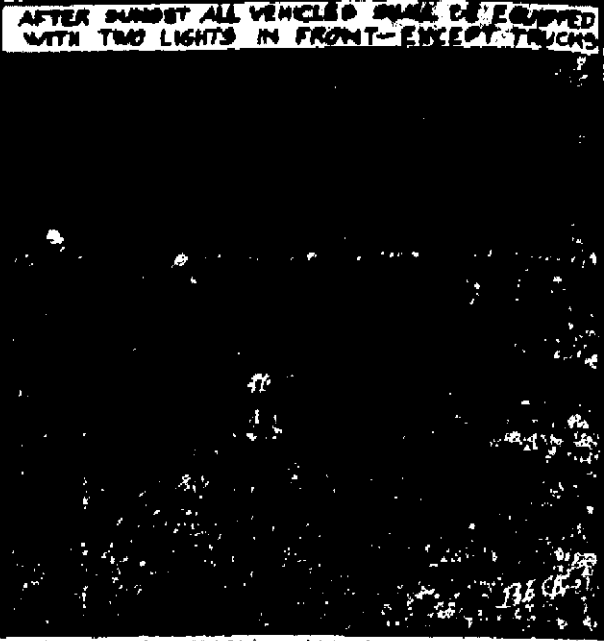

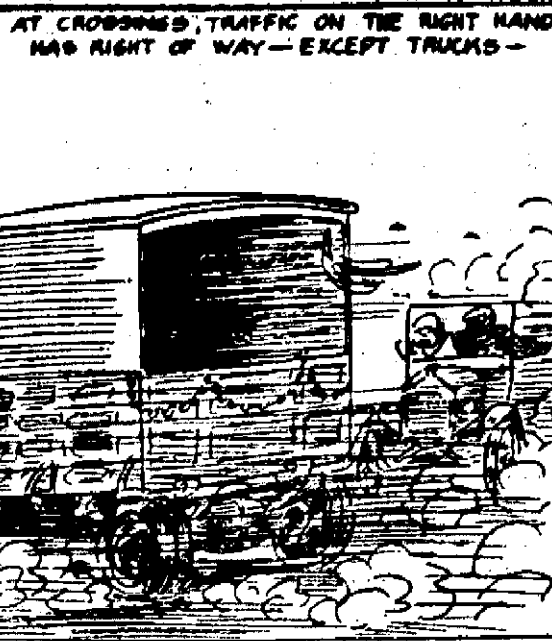

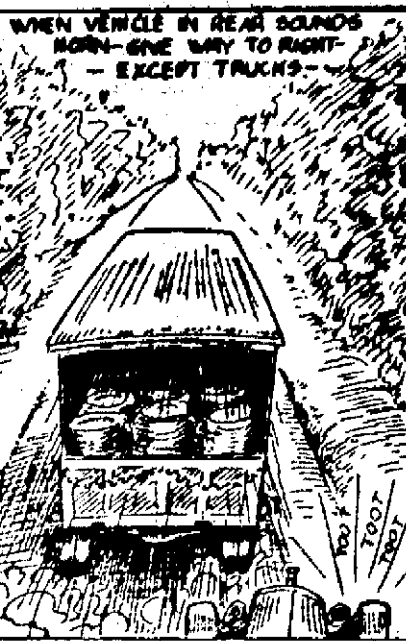

"Many came from well-to-do families and had not been accustomed to hard manual work. Yet they cheerfully cleared the stones from the soil in the broiling sun and planted seedlings for the future fruits of Palestine.

Many in Need of Funds.

"There are hundreds of thousands like them yet in central and eastern Europe and the great problem is to transfer them to Palestine. There are two main difficulties to overcome. The first is due to the economic ruin of central and eastern Europe. In ordinary times most of these pioneers would have a tolerable sum of money at their disposal for the journey, and for their first settlement in Palestine. Today the German and Polish mark and Austrian and Hungarian crown and Russian ruble are so low that comparatively wealthy persons have to ask for assistance to pay their passage.

"The other difficulty is due to the condition of Palestine. The land has been desolate for so many years that it cannot be rendered fit for habitation without the expenditure of millions. The enthusiasm among the Jews all over the world is growing, and I am confident that in a very few years we shall see a strong and thriving Jewish population in Palestine. The well-to-do will establish factories when once the foundations are laid."

Convenience of Coke as Fuel

When burning coke a furnace requires much less attention than when burning soft coal. The time usually given to poking fires, cleaning the furnace flues and the house, can be spent much more profitably in some other way. Surely the most disagreeable work a householder is called upon to do is to clean the soot out of his furnace and flues.

Gas cannot be made to sell at a reasonable price for householders' use unless the by-product, coke, is fully utilized. Only by selling a large quantity of coke for house-heating purposes can the by-product plant operator afford to deliver the gas to the householder at a reasonable price.

You need furnace fuel. Why not use coke? By selling a large quantity we are enabled to produce gas cheaper and your interest is therefore mutual with ours.

GERMAN MIND IS UNCHANGED

War Fails to Jar Confront of Tauton, Says Observer of Long Experience.

MENTAL ISOLATION ABSOLUTE

Unable to Understand How They Are Defeated—The German of Today Is to All Intents and Purposes the Same as in 1913.

London. — Although Berlin has changed since 1914, the German mind remains unchanged. Neither the holocaust of dead nor the crash of thrones has shaken Germany out of her self-conceit, according to what G. Valentin Williams, formerly correspondent of Reuters Agency in Berlin, tells the London Daily Mail.

"The German mind," he says, "does not seem to have altered."

"Albeit sadly puzzled to account for the utter break-down of the entire German system, in his outlook on life the German of 1920 is to most intents and purposes the German of 1913. In a world which to British eyes is strangely changed by five years of World war the mental isolation of the German is absolute. To talk to him makes you feel that the German of today is the loneliest creature on God's earth."

"Yet with heavy deliberation he is communing with himself to ascertain the causes of his defeat. But he is not examining his conscience."

"Any Berlin bookshop will show you the chaos prevailing in the German mind."

Nothing of the Present.

"Professor Steinach's rejuvenation experiments, Einstein's theory of light, Maynard Keynes and Norman Angell on the Versailles Peace—both books in German translations and prominently displayed—treatises on spiritualism, atheism, free love, and the like—works of this description stand side by side with a mass of frankly pornographic literature. Here will you find reasoned explanations for the past, complicated schemes for the future, but nothing practical to deal with the problems of the present. And above all, no contrition for Germany's crime against mankind."

"The German surveyed the world from his castle of militarism. Now that it has collapsed he is left floundering in a sea of doubts and fears. The Germans with whom I have spoken expect us to hold them guiltless of the past because, they say, they have rid Germany of her military caste."

"They have, it is true, expelled the bloody-minded blunderers surrounding that eminent nonentity, William the Second-rater, because they failed to keep their promise to establish German world-domination. But the German people is governed by the herd instinct, and the expulsion of the Old Gang in the circumstances of military defeat and home panic in which the Hohenzollerns were sent away requires weightier evidence of a change of heart than is forthcoming in Germany today. If it is to be accepted as a proof of the death of German militarism."

Blank Indifference.

"Talk to a Frenchman of any class, and you will, sooner or later, come upon a well-banked but fiercely snarling Republican ardor. Talk to a German about his government and you will find, at the best, lukewarm interest; at the worst, resentful ridicule towards the German Republic."

"The average attitude is one of blank indifference. The German man in the street never thought for himself. He does not do so today. The question of the future is, what party will emerge from the present chaos to do his thinking for him?"

"The Germans are perfectly willing to forgive us for the war. They talk glibly about 'this unhappy war' with the air of a man making perfunctory excuses for some social lapse. In some may be detected in addition a little air of condescension in speaking of the late unpleasantness as though to draw attention to their magnanimity in accepting the war as an inevitable catastrophe, 'an act of God,' as the insurance policies say. And even today I find that the great majority of Germans have no idea of the abhorrence in which the very name German is held in the Anglo-Saxon countries and in France and Belgium."

There are all kinds of cheap printing—but none of it is really cheap—at least not on a basis of value. Cheap stuff is usually worth almost what it costs. Our printing isn't the cheapest you can get, but it's as good as the best.

LAY'S SATURDAY SALE

February is the month when one needs the best and most nourishing meats the market affords to keep members of the family red-blooded and vigorous. When the home-comer returns tired and cold these evenings there is nothing like sitting down to a nice Roast of our Pork, a toothsome Steak, Tender Chops or a dish of Frankfurters. The primary aim of our business is to supply customers with the best cuts of meats at the lowest possible prices. Not less important to that aim, in our eyes, is the maintenance of a spotlessly clean shop and persistent determination to use nothing but the best meat and spices in the making of our Bologna, Frankfurters, Sausages, Head-cheese, etc. Give our products a trial if you want something extra fine.

Dr. Michael Hainisch

Dr. Michael Hainisch, recently elected president of the new Austrian Republic. In a recent statement President Hainisch, who is regarded as the only man who can prevent starvation in Austria, asked the co-operation of the Allies and of America in Austria's attempt to regain her feet. The new president is noted as a writer on socialist subjects and is a graduate of the University of Vienna.

Decision Day At Churches.
Decision Day will be observed in the churches throughout the country Sunday. At the Christian Endeavor service at 6:45 o'clock at the Fair Street Reformed Church the services will be in charge of the prayer meeting committee. There will be a special musical program and several new members will be received. At the evening service at 7:30 o'clock the pastor, the Rev. F. B. Seelye, will hold a special service for the members of the Christian Endeavor Society, taking as his topic, "Wanted a Decision." There will be a special musical program with vocal selections by Harry Clearwater.

Schooner's Crew Missing.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 4.—Coast guards at Hatteras and Creed Hill today expressed fears that the entire crew of the five-masted schooner Carroll A. Deering, ashore on Diamond Shoals had been drowned trying to reach shore in small boats. The schooner was commanded by Captain Merritt and carried a crew of 16. Not a trace of any kind has been found of the crew. The vessel went aground last Sunday night. Coast guard crews reached the vessel yesterday only to find it deserted.

Snapshots to Open Barber Shop.
Bernard Sampson, who for a number of years has been employed in John Genther's barber shop in the Mansion House building, will start in business for himself Monday, opening a shop in the building at No. 51 East Strand, where for years George A. Hahn conducted a barber shop.

There was a large attendance at the Firemen's Fair and Bazaar in Pythian Hall Wednesday evening. The entertainment given under the auspices of the Ever Ready Dramatic Club was fine. The hall was beautifully decorated with old glory, Chinese lanterns covered with electric bulbs. They made a beautiful soft light. The writing was done by Clarence Craig and decorating by Charles Zimmerman. These gentlemen deserve special mention for their work.

The meeting of the committee for the Washington birthday party of the Reformed Church which was to have been held this evening has been postponed until next Monday evening.

Breach of promise is alleged in the $500,000 suit brought by Mrs. Elsa Blum, of Arkville, N. Y., against Kingdon Gould, of New York, second son of George Jay Gould. Mrs. Blum, a divorcee, says that Mr. Gould promised to marry her before he married Miss Annunziata Lucci in 1917. According to Mrs. Blum's complaint, Gould paid for detectives to get evidence whereby Mrs. Blum was able to secure her divorce. She further alleges that Gould promised to marry her as soon as she should be freed from her husband.

No Fox; No Fabrics.

Foxes have figured in the fables of every race of men on earth since the dawn of history, written Dr. R. W. Shufeldt in the American Forestry Magazine.

Take what the fox did out of the fables of Aesop and other writers of fables and their work would be robbed of four-fifths their interest.

Mrs. Gladys Witherell, the beautiful young wife of O. S. Witherell, smiling broker of Los Angeles, who was the victim of a sensational kidnapping scheme and later rescued by a posse. The kidnappers, Arthur and "Red" Carr, who were sentenced to from ten years to life imprisonment in San Quentin penitentiary, held Mrs. Witherell for several days in a shack fifty miles from Los Angeles. They demanded a large ransom for her safe return. The photograph shows Mrs. Witherell and her fifteen-month-old son, Jack.

Trivial Accident Brings Disaster.
The gypsy moth has caused a great deal of trouble in this country, and much money and energy have been spent in the effort to exterminate it. The trouble started when a French naturalist named Trouvelot, residing in the town of Malden, Mass., left a paper box containing gypsy moth eggs on a window ledge and it blew off. That was in the early eighties, and he was making experiments with various kinds of caterpillars as silk spinners.

Dog's Sense of Danger.
Perhaps the most surprising and interesting story concerning dogs is one that occurred in the writer's own town, in England. One Sunday afternoon, in August of 1917, a man proceeded to his allotment for a few hours' work. He took with him, as usual, his dog, a great pet. Toward 5 o'clock the dog grew very restive and kept trotting excitedly toward home and back again. Every while as eloquently as Balaban's ass, he was speaking his mind and saying with eyes and tail and voice and action, "Please come home." The man grew curious and "consented." He had scarcely reached the shelter of his house when a number of Gothas floated over the town, dropping their ghastly messengers of death. Afterward it was found that a bomb had exploded on his allotment, smashing to splinters the chair on which he usually rested. Does any one think that this man needs the recommendation of the S. P. C. A? I think not. Nor would the world at large if they simply considered the amazing and generous service which animals render to men. —Our Dumb Animals.

QUEER CREATURES

"They say we're queer," said a rattlesnake in the zoo. "They say that people are surprised because some of us are somewhat pinkish in color and that such a color is queer for us to have and for all the alligators to have."

"But they're ignorant when they say that, for they do not know that we come from the South, in a part of the country where the banks of the river and the shores of the lakes and streams are of red clay. And we have, as families, taken some of the color to ourselves."

"I don't mean, of course, that the color has run off on us. But in the years our families have lived in these parts we have taken on some of the ways and some of the colors of these homes."

"And when I speak of these parts and these homes, I mean the ones we have come from and not where we are now, for now we are in the zoo."

"Where we come from there are curious little bugs which, if they get the chance, will lay their eggs on people's hands if they're off in the swamps hunting for snakes such as we are."

"To be sure, there aren't many people who go and look for us for the zooks. The whole world isn't so fond of snakes as it might be."

"These little creatures I was speaking of are called ticks, and there are red bugs in the swamps, too, that are annoying little creatures to folks."

"The zoo people brought along with them a cotton-mouthed moccasin, and some folks don't think any more of that than if they'd brought along a pussy cat."

"They say" the diamond-backed rattler announced, "that I am one of the few snakes who is too smart to be ever caught by an unexpectedly cold winter. I am smart."

"The southern rattler usually spends his winter in the holes of pine trees and covers himself with a blanket of warm pine needles."

"Ah, there are so many snakes in the country that it is a joy!"

"There are copperheads which are poisonous, and others which are not, such as the king snakes, and there are the black water snakes, the ring-necked snakes, the scarlet snakes, the hog-nosed snakes, the black snakes, the scarlet snakes, the chicken snakes, the rat snakes and the coach whips."

"All of these lived where we used to live, and doubtless there are many of the different families living there now."

"How interesting they all are!"

"Ah," said an alligator, "they brought me along and my handsome neighbor here, and they brought lizards and toads and other delightful creatures."

"We're Delightful Creatures."

"Some would call us queer creatures, but we say we are delightful creatures."

"Ah when I was caught at first I was mad. They wouldn't let me do anything with my great jaws, and I had been making such a noise with them at first."

"Then I had slashed and swished my tail about and thrown mud at the faces of the people who were trying to catch me, but still they caught me."

"And now I'm happy, for I lie here on this side of my pool as I used to lie on the mud bank where my home was."

"The cotton-mouthed moccasin," said the rattlesnake, "is far meaner than I am. He won't warn people that he is going to strike. But I will. I will give a rattle and warn them. Then it is up to them to try to catch me or to leave me."

"I sit up, coiled about in the marshy grass, and then I am ready to strike. They teased me with a stick until I coiled up, though, and then when I was ready to strike they covered me with a box, caught me and brought me back here. I dropped poison around that but in enough quantity to kill any number of people, but the ones who caught me seemed to know my ways, and avoided or didn't get near the poison, nor did they give me the chance to poison them."

"Ten, we're queer, we reptiles, but some of us are beautiful and all of us are interesting, and quite a few of us are poisonous, which is about the worst of all."

Watch for Poisonous Things.
Keep on the watch for poisonous things, but don't worry for fear your troubles will take you by surprise.

A Piping Paragon.

The average motor when first used is about 50 miles above the surface of the earth, and disappears from view at 50 miles. Then it travels 50 miles before the atmospheric friction turns it up. This friction, it is reckoned, causes it to be a temperature of something like 3,000,000 degrees.

COURAGE OF SAMURAI TESTED

Boy of Twelve Forced to Show He Was Not Afraid of Death by His Own Hand.

Rate told as stories—the young man who wanted the sword that he might disembowel the Kiumans and not have to bite their throats in the hand-to-hand fighting.

Then the story of the samurai boy who must once in his life face death—make up his mind that he is to die. His own case, at the age of twelve, coming home from school, to find his great uncle and his mother all serious, a naked sword on a little wooden rack, the house all in order.

To be told that he had disgraced the family, he had dishonored his father's sword and killed a dog. He would be given the privilege of committing harakiri, for he was a samurai's son.

His great uncle gave him an object lesson, showed him how it was done and told him to proceed, wrapping the blade in paper, that it might not cut his hand, and telling him that he must do as he had seen his great uncle do in earnest.

The boy begged for mercy. His kinsman and his mother were immovable. Was he afraid to die? If so, they might help him, and the uncle put his hand on his sword.

The boy's tears stopped. He knew his time had come and bowed. He opened his dress, rubbed his abdomen three times. He put out his hand and grasped the sword. He knew no more till a cry of "Mate" (Stop) brought him to his senses.

The reprieve at last. An instant more and he would have been dead by his own hand. He waited, dazed in a death sweat. His courage had been tested. He had faced death.—Asia Magazine.

ACCORDED PALM FOR BEAUTY

Miss Harriet Lang Acknowledged to Have Been the Prettiest Lady of the White House.

Historians are inclined to give to Miss Harriet Lane, niece of President Buchanan, the palm for being the prettiest woman that ever ruled the White House social life. She was a blond with hair of a rare gold, deep-blue eyes, and her mouth was said to be one of the most beautiful ever owned by a Washington belle. Her beauty was so noticeable that at the dawn of womanhood, when she accompanied her uncle, then America's representative in England, to Oxford, where he was to receive the degree of doctor of civil laws, that the student body greeted her appearance with terrific cheers, inspired entirely by the smile of her lovely lips as she turned her flowerlike face toward them.

Not only was she beautiful in line and curve, but in addition she was a picture of perfect health, an athlete of no mean order, as many a young gallant discovered after she had challenged him to a race and beaten him so badly that spectators of the race unmercifully chaffed him. She played many games with skill and vigor, and there was not a woman in Washington that could compete with her in any game calling for strength and great activity. In spite of this she was not unwomanly, and excelled as a harpist, wrote poetry, and, as the young people of the capital reported, "danced like a feather."

Look Out Upon the Desert.
Come to the eastern side of the peak and look out once more upon the desert while yet there is time. The afternoon sun is driving its rays through the pines like the sharp-cut shafts of searchlights, and the shadows of the mountains are lengthening in distorted silhouette upon the sands below. Yet still the San Bernardino range, leading off southeast to the Colorado river, is glittering with sunlight at every peak. You are above it and can see over its crests in any direction. The vast sweep of the Mojave lies to the north; the Colorado with its old seabed lies to the south. Far away to the east you can see the faint forms of the Arizona mountains melting and mingling with the sky; and in between lie the long pink rifts of the desert valleys and the lilac tracery of the desert ranges.—"The Desert," by C. Van Dyke.

A Flying Charlie.
All Paris, I think, myself among the rest, assembled to see the valiant brothers, Robert and Charlie, mount into the air yesterday, in company with a certain Pilatre de Rozier, who conducted them in the newly-invented flying chariot fastened to an air-bulloon. It was from the middle of the Tuilleries that they set out, a place very favorable and well-conducted for such public purposes. But all was so nicely managed, so cleverly carried on, somehow, that the order and decorum of us who remained on firm ground struck me more than even the very strange sight of human creatures floating in the void; but I have really been witness to ten times as much bustle and confusion at a crowded theater in London, than what these peaceful Parisians make when the whole city was gathered together. —Mrs. Pencil (1799).

FATHER MABRY TALKS TO D. A. R.

The regular February meeting of Wiltyck Chapter, D. A. R., which was held at the Chapter House on Thursday afternoon was most interestingly addressed by the Rev. Gregory Mabry, rector of Holy Cross Church, this city.

During the short business session the chapter gratefully acknowledged the receipt of a case containing two patches, which came from one of the 12 King's homeboys in New Paltz, the donor being Dr. Dever Hasbrouck, Sleight. On one of the patches is a picture of the second victory of Commodore Perry, and on the other a picture of Commodore MacDonough's victory at Lake Champlain. Another highly appreciated gift was that of a complete "Durham's Genealogy," given by Mrs. Katharine Burhans of Katonah. The committee on resolutions reported appropriate resolutions on the death of Mrs. Paul Devo (aged 97 years) at Keenville, Dutchess county.

The entire program period of the afternoon was devoted to an exceedingly interesting address on "The Darkest Hour," delivered by the Rev. Mr. Mabry. Mrs. William M. Davis and Miss Margaret Merritt having charge of the program.

The Rev. Mabry, who is state chaplain of the American Legion, traced the disastrous effect of the war upon the relations of man to man and the loss of confidence in things that had been held sacred—the sowing of suspicion and distrust that had "broken the human race." A long and painful process must ensue before we straggle out, rediscover ourselves and take up the Ten Commandments again. The last two years have been like word hours that succeed the darkest hour but, fortunately, precede the sunrise—a time when it is neither night nor day and when man's suspicion is easiest aroused. The period of transition to normalcy or a period superior to that before the war will witness the same struggle and trials that go hand in hand when any great and good end is achieved. Nothing worth while is achieved save through the working of this immutable law so resented by the communist.

The Daughters' organization, said Father Mabry, was founded to perpetuate the lesson of one of the darkest hours of the nation—its birth pain hour. If this organization has become a sort of aristocracy or a cult devoted to the past, or sentimentalists, it should get out of the way.

The Legion should cause apprehension to no one and regardless of what is said about it, of its preamble in the constitution, its real object is to keep the human race mindful of the great lessons its members learned in their hard school, "The Darkest Hour" and to keep America and mankind from another fit of insanity.

The highly appreciated address was followed by the customary delightful social hour, the hostesses being Mrs. Silas LeFevre and Mrs. Hewitt Boice.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, Feb. 3.—Thursday morning about 2 o'clock Wilson Gray and family were awakened by the house being filled with smoke. On investigation found that a fire had started in the chimney.

Everett Brannen of Foughkeepsie is visiting his relatives in this place. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Deppuy and daughters, Jennie, and Beulah Terpenning of Accord spent Thursday with Mrs. Deppuy's father, John Traver and family in this place.

Mrs. Mary Brannen and Miss Ruth Reaves called on Mrs. H. Traver Saturday afternoon.

Ace Keator has bought an auto. Those that spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shurrer were Mrs. H. Traver and daughter, Mildred and son, John, and Mr. and Mrs. Ous Barringer and daughter, Vera.

John Traver and friend, and Robert Dymond and friend attended the hop at John Alexander's last Saturday night. They reported a large crowd and a fine time.

Miss Ella Merrish of Krumville visited our school Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Brannen is employed by Mrs. Elmer Barringer.

From present indications we believe that the designers of ladies' clothes are doing their best to make both ends meet, and we shudder for fear that they may succeed.—Richmond (Pa.) Clarion.

LAST GAMES OF COLONIAL LEAGUE

The last games in the Colonial League will be staged in St. Peter's Hall this evening when the Centrals will clash with the Eagles and St. Peter's play the K. of C. The Tigers won the league championship by winning every league game played by them. The Centrals have won second place in the league and the game this evening will not affect their standing whether they win or lose. There have been some fast games staged in the league and it is expected that there will be a record crowd this evening to see the closing games of the season.

A Practical Address.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Margaret Risley, court reporter of this city, gave a most interesting and practical address to a large number of students of the stenographic department of Spencer's Business School. Miss Risley related some of her own experiences during her many years of service as a short hand writer, bringing out a number of helpful points which, if put into practice would prove beneficial to all followers of the art. The young people appreciated the timely advice and counsel which Miss Risley gave them and will use it to their profit. The keynote and closing words of the address were practice, practice, practice, which is the solution of the problem of efficiency for any stenographer.

GIRL SCOUTS AT USEFUL WORK

(Contributed.)

Since war time has gone, and so parades are over, the Girl Scouts are never seen parading. They are preparing for peace, not war, learning to do the useful things which every mother should know to make her home peaceful and happy, and to enjoy life in the best way.

A little while ago the Girl Scout Council had a meeting which was well attended, the following members being present: Commissioner Martha H. Davis, Miss Beulah Smith, secretary, Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy, treasurer, Vice-Commissioner Marietta Risley, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Mrs. Mark O'Neara, Miss May Davis, Dr. Mark O'Neara, Dr. Kaplan, Charles R. O'Connor and C. W. Lewis.

Beside discussing plans for next summer they decided to meet again this week to hear reports of committees for the summer plans and to meet Mrs. Flora B. Mundy, a Scout leader from national headquarters. She is coming to inspire us by telling what other Scouts are doing the world over, that we may get new ideas.

Mrs. Mundy will also speak to some of the girls at the High School.

Any one who wishes to join a troop or start a troop may speak to Miss Martha H. Davis at 207 Wall street, or Miss Marietta Risley at the High School.

We Scouts want you to know that we are among you, a little band who stand together for a straight, clean life, healthy girls who know how to lead useful, happy lives and understand the ideal so simply expressed by Ruskin: "Life without industry is guilt, industry without art is brutality."

SHANDAKEN WON

From Chickadee Team in Fast Game at Alabam.

The Shandaken and Chickadee teams met at the Shandaken and Alabam Community Hall, which resulted in a victory for Shandaken. The game was fair and clean throughout except in the first half, when there were many fouls called. The score at the end of the first half was 14-16 in favor of Chickadee. Thompson, Verry and Gulnick of Shandaken played a fast game throughout. Van Noidall also made a few fine baskets.

Dangerous Mistaken.
There are more deaths from malaria and malarial fever than from any other disease. Greater efforts to prevent malaria would seem to be the only way in which this problem can be solved with successfully, combined with the education of parents in the necessity for the observation of quarantine and isolation procedures even for these simple diseases.

The Stout Woman Can Save The Entire Price of a Corset

by buying
One of the New Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets at $5.00

They are Built To Last As Long As Two Corsets of Average Make

The Nemo Self-Reducing Corset is made to stand the wear which the stout figure must necessarily give it. The Self-Reducing Straps—simple in construction—yet scientific and most successful in result—retain their usefulness throughout the entire life of the corset.

The corset itself must fit well, wear well and retain its shape in order that the hygienic features may perform their functions to the best advantage.

So one is dependent on the other—and each is constructed for greater wearing service.

No Custom-Made Corset Is Made With As Great Skill and Care As the Nemo Self-Reducing Models

Yet the price is no higher than for any ordinary corset—and approaching the Nemo in quality or service.
